Year 10 HT1	In this half term students will study the ethics of conflict. We will look at religious response to war, and what conflict looks like in modern Britain. We will discuss if religion is an enabler or inhibitor of conflict in history and today.
Year 10 HT2
Year 10 HT3
Year 10 HT4	In this half term students will study the causes of crime and the aims of the justice system. We will look at how different religions respond to the causes of crime, and those who commit them, as well as attitudes towards different forms of punishment.
Year 11 HT1	In this half term students will study different responses to the origin of evil and sin. We will look at biblical, political, and literary sources.
Year 11 HT2	In this half term students will study different ethical theories such as utilitarianism. We will look at how these can be applied to different situations.
Year 11 HT3
Year 11 HT4	In this half term students will study narratives of lived experience of religion. We will take an interdisciplinary approach to identify how people interpret religious teaching, and the effect this has on others.
